Pre-Conference Workshop
Wednesday, October 31, 2007

Conference Keynote
Thursday, November 1, 2007

John Antonetti is a former Director of K-12 Curriculum. Once described as a "teacher's teacher," John is an advocate of experiential education and recognizes that all learners learn best when they work together to solve real world problems in safe, cooperative environments. Mr. Antonetti has had the great fortune to teach at all grade levels. He has taught kindergarten, elementary, middle, and high school. John has also served as supervisor of gifted programs.

John has been a lead developer and trainer in the process of classroom walk-throughs, a system for improving curriculum and instruction. He provides schools and districts with on-site instructional analysis and follow-up support through workshops, coaching, and classroom demonstration models.

Mr. Antonetti has worked with three districts that won the nationally-recognized Broad Prize for Urban Education. His work has focused on developing systemic writing programs, power standards, and district assessments. Other on-site work has included student engagement, rigor and relevance, and high-yield best practices. In addition to large urban districts, John has partnered with teachers in smaller districts to bring about improved student achievement.

His humor and parables are recognized by administrators, teachers, and parents as relevant examples of the power of teachers. Antonetti is the author of the book, Lessons from the MIRA: Writing as a Measure of Thinking.
