

2010 VEFP Annual Conference

February 22-23 at the Hotel Roanoke

The Virginia Educational Facility Planners invites you to join us as we assemble high caliber presenters and provocateurs to explore how to establish schools that are active and effective learning communities. The VEFP Annual Conference is a regional event that draws attendees from school districts and design firms across the mid-Atlantic. This year's conference aims to challenge and enlighten, with keynote and breakout sessions that will explore the following key areas:

Celebrating and Maximizing the Strengths of Learners Community Engagement: Strengthening School Learning Communities Education and the Creative Economy

We are pleased to announce that John Weekes, Trung Le, Lois Favre and Joyce Epstein will be presenting on these topics and that every conference attendee will have the opportunity to learn from them. The conference will also include a design charette, school building exhibit and design competition, and in-depth breakout sessions.
