Interim Report

The Virginia Commission on Civics Education was established as a result of the passage of House Bill 1769, sponsored by Delegate James Dillard. It was approved on March 26, 2005. The purposes of the Commission on Civics Education, as stated in the legislation, include the education of students on the importance of citizen involvement in a representative democracy, the promotion of the study of state and local government among the Commonwealth's citizenry, and the enhancement of communication and collaboration among organizations in the Commonwealth that conduct civic education programs.

Membership of the Commission on Civics Education is composed of elected officials, representatives from higher education, public schools, the Virginia Department of Education, private individuals, and the press. There are six ex-officio members. In 2008 Senator W. Roscoe Reynolds succeeded Delegate Robert Tata as Chairman, and Glen H. Hoptman continued as Vice-Chairman of the Commission. Meetings of the Commission were held on December 11, 2007; August 5, 2008; and November 6, 2008.

The December 11, 2007, meeting was largely devoted to a report on the 2007 Virginia Civics Education Summit. It was the first Summit sponsored by the Commission on Civics Education and featured a number of speakers including, the First Lady of Virginia; the Secretary of Education; Dr. Michael Cornfield, Vice President, Research and Media Strategy, 720 Strategies; Professor Julie O'Sullivan, Professor of Law, Georgetown University Law Center; and Professor Robert Holsworth, Dean of the College of Humanities and Sciences, Virginia Commonwealth University. A standing-room audience of over 120 teachers attended the Summit in the Capitol building on September 20, 2007. The December meeting also began the planning for the 2008 Virginia Civics Education Summit. In addition there was a report on the Civics Commission's efforts in helping to write the new Virginia History and Social Science Standards of Learning. Many of the Commission's recommendations were included in the revision.

While there were no formal meetings in early 2008, Commission members were busy ensuring that the work of the Commission would be continued for the next two years. Delegate Robert Tata and Senator W. Roscoe Reynolds introduced legislation to their respective legislative bodies to extend the Commission on Civics Education's mandate until June 30, 2010. That extension was passed and enacted.

Three topics dominated the August 5, 2008, meeting. The first was planning for the 2008 Civics Summit. Prospective speakers and topics were outlined and a variety of options discussed for encouraging participation as well as methods of dissemination. A report followed on the newly approved History and Social Science Curriculum Frameworks. Civics participation will be an area of emphasis for the new Standards of Learning tests since a number of Civics Commission ideas were incorporated into the Framework. At the end of the August meeting, Senator W. Roscoe Reynolds was elected as the new Commission Chairman and Glen Hoptman was re-elected Vice Chairman.

The November 6, 2008, meeting focused on two topics. The first was a report on the successful Civics Summit of September 19, 2008. Educators from across the state joined members of the Civics Commission at the second annual Virginia Civics Education Summit in the Capitol Building in Richmond. Speakers at the Summit included David Wilkins, Kirkland & Ellis Professor of Law, Harvard Law School; Lee Rainie, Director, Pew Internet and American Life Project; and Dr. Joseph Kahne, Dean of the School of Education, Mills College. Staff members from the House of Delegates and Senate also offered information on the role and duties of both chambers. Each teacher received books and packets of materials on civics education from multiple sources. The proceedings were Web cast during the Summit and are available on the Everyday Civics Web site at <http://civics.pwnet.org/>.

There was also discussion of ways to continue the Civics Commission's mission due to budget reductions that eliminated funding for the Commission. Proposals were offered to make the Commission an independent or a partially independent body. Senator Reynolds agreed to move forward with exploring the options available through legislation.
